HON-Prefix Courses

If you are completing the Honors Scholar designation are required to take at least 3 credit hours of an HON-prefix course.

Course	CRN	Instructor	Date & Time	Campus & Room
HON 3000/01 Developing the Honors Magazine	10862	Casey Waldsmith	Tuesdays & Thursdays 11:00 – 12:15 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 223
This course will focus on the publication, development, and production of the Honors College magazine. Students will develop story ideas, develop magazine content, write stories in magazine style, and assist with the design of magazine pages. Class discussion will include magazine preparation, production, organization, and structure. At the conclusion of the class, each student will have participated in the total development and production of a magazine that will be distributed to the KSU community and published online.
HON 3000/02 Marketing of Fandom	13777	Tyra Burton	Tuesdays 5:00 – 5:50 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 202
HON 3000/03 This is America: The Soundtrack of American Social Movements	15412	Marja Kerney	Mondays 2:30 – 3:20 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 202
Music functions as a cultural tool for change and is an effective way to observe the social climate of any given time. Studying the music of a particular historical period gives a glimpse into the challenges and triumphs of its people. While this type of study can include many genres of music, this class will focus on popular music from the 1930s to the present. Pieces chosen to study will be connected to a variety of social issues such as racism, times of war, sexism, and political corruption.
HON 3000/04 Presenting at Conferences	15415	Lynn Stallings	Fridays 12:30 – 1:50 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 202
HON 3000/05 Presenting at Conferences	15421	Lynn Stallings	Thursdays 12:30 – 1:50 p.m.	Marietta Campus D-104
Whether you are presenting at the National Council on Undergraduate Research (NCUR) or other conferences this spring or interested in presenting in the future, you will benefit from this colloquium in which we overview the process and practice related skills. We will identify conferences at which you might present, develop abstracts and proposals to speak, prepare posters for conference presentations, and practice oral presentations. The colloquium will support those presenting at NCUR in April or other discipline-specific conferences. Course participants are encouraged to present at Georgia Collegiate Honors Council or the Georgia Undergraduate Research Conference. NOTE: Those interested in presenting at NCUR should note that the abstract deadline is December 4th and that the Honors College NCUR Boot Camp will help you prepare and submit your proposal.
HON 3301/03 Year of Morocco	10906	Daniel Paracka	Wednesdays 12:30 – 3:15 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus English Bldg 183
Co-taught by an interdisciplinary team of faculty, this course will explore a range of topics pertinent to Morocco's ever-changing post-modern contexts and enduring cultural traditions. Topics include: Women Leaders in Arab Monarchies; Gender and Sustainable Development; Islamic Art History and Architecture; Women's Centers, Healthcare and Community Health; American Studies in Morocco; Intercultural Competence, and Language, Migration, and Education. Students will select topics of their own interest for further research guided by members of the faculty team. Students will have a choice of engaging with a Moroccan-American community organization or participating in a study abroad program that will provide an immersive, global learning experience aimed at broadening students' worldviews and increasing their intercultural competence.
HON 3301/04 Honors Foundations: Critical Thinking	15413	Steve Miller	Mondays & Wednesdays 3:30 – 4:45 p.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 202
A survey of 1,320 recruiters for top companies found them looking for students who could creatively solve problems and think strategically. This class will put those skills on your resume. With plenty of class interaction, you'll learn to think more clearly, innovate more creatively, see through clever deceptions, manage life's decisions with more confidence, simplify complex and convoluted arguments, and express your convictions more powerfully. Profound, yet intensely practical, we'll wrestle with interesting topics in many fields, including topics of your choice.
HON 3301/05 Architecture of Sacred Spaces	15414	Thomas Pynn	Tuesdays & Thursdays 11:00 – 12:15 p.m.	Marietta Campus D-250
This interdisciplinary seminar considers sacred spaces in terms of their respective forms, functions, and design in some of the world's religious traditions. In most parts of the world, religious activity is linked to specific places that have ritual, mythical, or historical significance. These sacred spaces become the focus of ritual activity, pilgrimage, and symbolism, and are usually endowed with structures and art that draw attention to the sanctity of the place, create a sense of awe, and facilitate transformation of consciousness. We will look at how and why sacred sites become holy in certain religious traditions, how the sites and structures convey a sense of transcendence and awe, how the structures were designed, the symbolic meaning of these sites, and whether their functions and significance have survived to the present day unaltered or in a reconfigured form.

HON 3301/06 Environment, Sustainability, &amp; Society	15424	Carolee Larsen	Tuesdays & Thursdays 9:30 – 10:45 a.m.	Kennesaw Campus UC 202
In this interdisciplinary course, students will examine issues concerning environmental and social sustainability from a variety of disciplinary perspectives including the social and natural sciences, engineering, law, policy making, and business. Topics will include sustainable development, energy and climate policy and management, water, food, waste management and reduction, and sustainable production and conscious consumption and of goods.

Alternative Spring Break: Habitat for Humanity	Lynn Stallings
Spend your spring break making a difference with other Honors students by volunteering for Habitat for Humanity. We'll stay at the WinShape Retreat Center adjacent to the Berry College Campus and will also have a day of leadership training. On Monday, April 1st, we'll have a workshop on the KSU Campus. On Tuesday morning, we'll board vans and spend the rest of the week in Rome. We'll spend two days working for Habitat, one day in leadership training (including ropes courses and other fun experiences), and a half day exploring Rome.
M&M Book Club: The Righteous Mind	Michelle Miles Julia Morrissey	Kennesaw Campus: W, 3:30 – 4:45 Marietta Campus: R, 9:30 – 10:45	Kennesaw Marietta D-104
Volunteer Opportunity: 2019 NCUR Conference	Lynn Stallings	April 10 – 13, 2019
Interested in presenting at professional conferences? Learn more by volunteering and seeing “behind the scenes” as KSU hosts the National Council for Undergraduate Research Conference this spring. You’ll also have the chance to get ideas for your own Capstone research project. To earn the HLE, you will need to volunteer for at least 8-10 hours and also attend conference sessions for a total of at least 15 hours. You will submit a reflective report on your experience.
